Archduke Franz Ferdinand

The assassination of Franz Ferdinand (Archduke of Austria) sparked the outbreak of World War One.

Remembrance day

Every year on 11 November, people in the UK stop for a short moment of reflection. Poppies, which grew on the barren fields of World War One, are used to remember soldiers who died.

You should already know:

- The countries of Europe
- The many countries, as we know them today, were created following previous conflicts
- Technology used in conflict has developed over time

The Alliance system

Many countries had made alliances with one other. They agreed to protect each other. If one was attacked, the others would defend them.

The war was fought between:

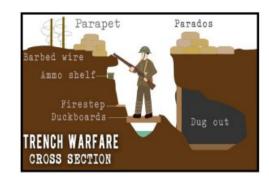

- The Triple Alliance: Germany, Austria
 Hungary and their allies.
 - The Triple Entente: Great Britain, France and Russia.

Trench Warfare

Many battles were fought using trench warfare.

Long ditches were dug in the ground. Soldiers lived in the trenches and sometimes climbed out to attack.

A famous example of trench war was the Battle of the Somme which started in July 1916.

New Technology

There were major developments in technology during World War One. New weapons and machines changed the way war was fought forever. Britain used tanks in battle for the first time in September 1916. Aeroplanes were recent inventions. As aircraft technology developed, planes became more important. Battleships-conflicts which took place on the sea were known as naval battles. Artillery field guns fired shells that exploded when they hit something. Machine guns fired up to 600 bullets a minute and were extremely dangerous.

Recruitment

In the first weekend of the war, 100 men an hour signed up for the army.

In 1916 Conscription was introduced.

Men were encouraged to join up with their friends, these were known as 'Pals Battalions'.

Some men - called conscientious objectors - refused to fight for moral or religious reasons. They said their consciences would not allow them to kill.

A white feather was used as a symbol to mean a man was a coward.

The idea was to shame the man and make him join the army.

The Suffragists

The suffragists were members of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies (NUWSS) and were lead by Millicent Garrett Fawcett during the height of the suffrage movement, 1890 – 1919. They campaigned for votes for middle-class, property-owning women and believed in peaceful protest.

The Treaty of Versailles World War One ended at Ilam on 11 November, 1918—this became known as Armistice Day. The leaders of the USA, Great Britain and France met in Versailles to decide what should happen next. The agreement was called the Treaty of Versailles. Terms of the treaty included:

- Germany had to accept total blame for starting the war.
- They could not join the new League of Nations
- Some places Germany used to own were taken from them.
- Germany were banned from having an army of more than 100,000 men and from having any submarines or an air force.
- The country had to pay 132 billion gold marks to repair the damages of war. They became poor because of this.
